

Inner Harbor

04 July 2015

I spend my days inside, my nights beside the water watching young things draw and quarter lives not yet their own.

This they call maturity, this ever lack-of-surety, to be out on my own, be big but still not fill the throne.